W. S. Brooks is the duly accredited Agent for this Paper.

MAY-DAY.—According to previous notice, the school children met at the tanyard-spring, on Tuesday last, and enjoyed themselves finely. That enterprising and affable gentleman, Mr. Paul T. Jones, on whose grounds the picnic was held, had prepared an impromptu table, and added no little to the many good things that had been placed upon it from the baskets of the little pleasure-seekers. About one hundred persons were present, and during the time that we were there, we saw no face that did not wear a smile. The children were happy because everything combined to make them so; the young ladies in attendance were happy—or ought to have been, and we believe they were—for there were some of the noble and true on the ground; and the elder ones were happy because every one else was. Indeed, it was a happy affair, and will long be remembered by the little bright-eyed classmates as they wander on through their respective fields in the unknown future. When dinner was over, some of the children, who had straggled up to an eminence near by, and who from their elevated position, commanded a full view of the road leading into town, discovered a three-mile wagon approaching, "crashed clock full" of musical instruments, and gentlemen who had a strong aversion to walking. "It's the Philharmonics! it's the Philharmonics!" shouted a host of silver voices; "Oh, now for a dance!" "Where'll we have it?" "Up at the house on the hill," was the pleasing answer; and away the last one of the little treasures fled, and many of the ladies, too, leaving a local standing solitary and alone on the banks of the miniature lake, seriously inclined to forsake the rough and monotonous realities of this wicked world, and jump right into the midst of the happy throng, who were "tripping the light fantastic too," and feel as in days of yore, when we too, knew naught of the busy cares of this life. But we soon found good company, and whiled away the evening as happily as circumstances would allow. All finally began exhibiting evidences of fatigue, and the party returned, all delighted with the pleasures of the day.

CONVENTION.—In our notice, last week, of the Episcopal Convention, which is shortly to assemble here, we stated that the 16th of June was the day on which the Convention would be convened. This was an error, as it is the 15th of May. Every arrangement is being made for the accommodation of the clergy and lay delegates who may be in attendance.

Some misstatements having recently been made, says a Memphis paper, with regard to internal revenue matters in Tennessee, pains have been taken at Washington to ascertain the facts. The amount of Tax originally due from the State was $669,498. Of this amount there has been collected $325,000. The receipts from sales amounted to $100,060. In addition to this, the Commissioners have purchased for the United States, principally in Memphis, property to the value of $72,125 dollars. The taxes have been fully collected in twenty counties, and books have been prepared for all the rest of the counties, with three or four exceptions, and probably the whole amount due would by this time have been collected, had the assistant collectors in counties been authorized from Washington. The collector for this county, T. G. Patrick, Esq., forwarded his bond some time since and is ready to enter upon the duties of his office so soon as the necessary books and blanks arrive.

The following conundrum is published for the benefit of the frequenters to the middle temple:

Why is the Capital of Tennessee like a certain favorite shade tree?
Because it's an asp-en! (aspen.)

THE RIOT.—The riots that were inaugurated in Memphis Tuesday and Wednesday last by a set of drunken abolition pets resulted quite seriously and caused the wildest excitement to prevail throughout the city. It is estimated that forty or fifty negroes were killed or wounded. Two or three white persons also lost their lives and several more were seriously wounded. Wednesday night and Thursday morning considerable damage was done to negro churches, school-houses and shanties generally by setting them on fire, many of which were burned to the ground.

DEPLORABLE.—We are credibly informed that a most unnatural tragedy was enacted about nine miles southeast of this place a few days since, in which a young man by the name of Luttrell shot his twin brother, inflicting a mortal wound. It seems they were disputing about the building of a fire when the awful result of uncontrollable passion was reached.

President Johnson proclaimed to the people of the United States, previous to the passage of the Civil Rights Bill, that universal suffrage would breed a war of races, and he told the truth. Ye local said that competition was the life of trade, and he told the truth likewise; and if you don't believe it, call in at Harris, Moore & Co's, at Billie's old stand, and be convinced. They are doing a thriving business, and have a house full of seasonable goods.

THE MARKETS.

MONEY AND COMMERCIAL.

New York, May 3.—Gold 27½. Cotton steady at 34½.
New Orleans, May 3.—Gold, 28c. Cotton, 33½-34½.
Memphis, May 3.—Gold, buying, 25c; silver, 15c. Cotton, 27½-28c.
The Appeal, of yesterday, says of the general market: "There was no improvement—the rioting, killing and burning have had a depressing influence on business."
The same paper quotes cotton sold at 65¢, 80¢, and good demand; butter 35¢-55c; eggs at 20¢-22c, and drooping; vegetables very dull and lower all round.

Major Glover, the State agent for the Tennessee Live Stock Insurance Company has just returned from a tour through the State appointing agents in the different counties. He expresses the opinion that the institution will be a decided success, and that the prospects of the company for doing a large business are very flattering. The danger of horses and mules being stolen is so great, and the premiums demanded by the company so small, it is strange that every one owning stock does not have it insured at once. If any kind friend will give us a horse, or even a mule, we will have it insured immediately. J. G. Turner is the agent in this place, get him to insure your stock.—Gallatin Examiner, 28th ult.

Dr. H. Black, of the firm of Black & Moore, druggists, is the agent for the company in this county. Call on him and insure your stock before it is too late.

Ogilvie Bros. & Co., at their old and popular stand, corner of Monroe and Front streets, Memphis, are engaged in transacting the heaviest business done by any similar house in that city. The known integrity of the gentlemen who compose this firm is beyond question. They are ever alive to the wants of their numerous customers, and never fail to keep on hand every article usually found in a first-class hardware and agricultural warehouse. The planter, mechanic, painter, mill-wright, sportsman, and country merchants can procure from their well furnished establishment any article that may be desired, and that too at manufacturers' prices, either wholesale or retail. As a people, we would call the attention of the public to the important fact that Ogilvie Bros. & Co. are agents for the celebrated burglar and fire-proof safes made by Marvin & Co. of New York and Philadelphia. These safes are highly recommended for the many good qualities they possess over all others, chief among which is their durability and thorough dryness.

Dr. Mortimore & Payne, office at room No. 19, Commercial Hotel, Memphis, are perfecting wonderful cures. Persons afflicted with painful, acute, or chronic diseases, should not fail to consult them. We do not know Dr. Payne personally, but hear him favorably spoken of by all who have the pleasure of his acquaintance. He is a true Southern gentleman, however, and a popular physician. Dr. Mortimore we have known for years, and can truthfully assert that he has seen cases successfully treated by him that were pronounced incurable and beyond the pale of hope. His wonderful success in the treatment and cure of afflicting diseases peculiar to females is extensively known, and we deem it nothing less than our duty to point him out as the proper person to consult when others have failed to furnish relief, for his thorough knowledge of and vast experience in materia medica is most skillfully applied to each and every case which he undertakes to cure.

Important Order.
Bureau of Refugees, Freedmen and Abandoned Lands, State of Kentucky and Tennessee: Am. & Com. Office, Nashville, Tenn., April 7, 1866.—Circular No. 10.—In accordance with instructions from Maj. Gen. Howard, Commissioner, Bureau of Refugees, Freedmen and Abandoned Lands, this Bureau will assume the work of collecting the claims of colored soldiers and sailors, and their families, against the United States Government, for back pay, bounty, pensions, etc., in order to save them from the extortion and frauds of Claim Agents. Instructions for the guidance of officers of this Bureau in preparing these claims, and the forms necessary to be used, will be furnished from this office.
All claims will be prosecuted free of cost to the claimant, except for Revenue stamps and Notary fees.
It will be the duty of Superintendents to publish this intention of the Bureau as widely as possible, and to receive and prepare, in accordance with the forms and instructions, all claims that may be properly presented.
The application, when properly executed, together with the accompanying statements, in the form of a letter, will be sent to this office, where they will be examined, and if found correct, will be forwarded to Washington for settlement.

CLINTON B. FISK, Bt. Maj. Gen'l, Asst. Commissioner. OFFICIAL: H. S. BROWN, A. G.
The Local Superintendent at this place, J. D. Usery, will be ready in a few days to carry out the provisions of the above order.

HARKINS & DURETT.—As an earnest of the increasing mercantile trade of Bolivar, we refer our readers to the advertisement of these old and highly esteemed merchants, who have just opened a splendid stock of seasonable goods at Harkins' old stand, southwest corner public square. It will no doubt be pleasing to many of our citizens to learn that Ed. Durrett is again behind the counter, and ready to wait upon them at a moment's notice. We bespeak for this new firm with old familiar faces a splendid trade, for certainly Messrs. Harkins & Durrett possess all the essentials of a popular firm. Call and see them.

FINEST AND BEST.—Drs. Black & Moore, among the many pure and genuine articles which they keep in their exclusive drug store, have a few dozen quart bottles of superior cognac brandy. Gentlemen who prefer the pure French manufacture, should call and get a supply from Black & Moore.

We are pleased to announce the fact that our old friend G. W. Crook, Esq., is permanently located at 257½ Main street, and to know that he has fallen into so useful a line of business. He is with N. H. Ford, manufacturer of dealer in saddles, harness, bridles, etc. When you are in Memphis, be sure to call on Crook, and he will put you through.

"I wish I was in Dixie's," and so do you, no doubt, for he keeps one of the finest saloons in the "bluff city." When you are there, pay him a visit; you'll find him in the celebrated Dixie Saloon, next door to the Theatre, Postoffice block.

If you want a suit of clothes, cheaper than the cheapest, call in at the store of Fleming, Usery & Co. They have a large stock of gentlemen's summer clothing; also some handsome business suits.

"The Fountain" is good—in fact, it's excellent, or at least you can get excellent draughts for the inner man from it; if you have any doubts about it, step in at No. 41 Jefferson street, when you are in Memphis, and Mr. McGhee, the gentlemanly caterer, will convince you that we tell the truth.

Y. Day's picture gallery, No. 338 Main street, Memphis, is the place to get yourself "as others see you." He is prepared to produce pictures in every variety of style.

For books and stationery, call on C. C. Cleaves & Co., corner Monroe and Second street, Memphis. The senior member of this firm has been dealing in books and stationery in Memphis for many years, and no doubt many of his old customers will be pleased to learn of his present locality, as those who trade with him once never fail to call the second time.

We refer our readers to the card of B. P. Robson. This gentleman has fitted up a palatial saloon in the rear of Capt. Larry Harstad's office, No. 14 Jefferson street, opposite the Commercial Hotel, and would be pleased to cater to all those who desire the genuine and pure.

Our readers will see from the card of Prof. Katzenbach, which we print in another column, that he is prepared to furnish from his saloons, 317 Main street, pianos of the most celebrated manufacture at eastern prices. He has constantly on hand sheet music, musical instruments, books, stationery, etc.

Saddles, bridles, harness, etc., can be had of J. Brandenburg, a well known and celebrated manufacturer, 358 Main street. He is one of the business men of our big city.

Dr. R. W. Creighton can be found at No. 444 Main street. When you are in the "bluff city," call in and see his splendid establishment. He has on hand one of the finest assortments of drugs and medicines to be found in the Western District.

At No. 202 Front street, Memphis, Simpson, Hadden & Co. do a heavy grocery and commission business. Read their double column card.

Parties desiring machinery of any kind would do well to call on Lawless & Widrig, foot of Washington street, Memphis.

Taylor, Gay & Rutland, at No. 304 Front street, Memphis, have a large supply of staple and fancy groceries on hand, all of which will be sold very low. They are cotton factors, and do a general commission business. See their card in another column.

We call the attention of our readers to the well filled shelves of Hardy & Wilson. If you buy from them once, you'll give them another call sure.

In another column will be seen the card of Dr. J. W. Nelson, dentist, who has recently located here.

Sidney Cook, tobacconist at the Gayoso House, has the finest Havana cigars to be found in Memphis.

When you go to the "bluff city," the first thing, of course, is a wash, or bath, then a shave—a real good shave, hair trim, and a general clean up, and right at the Washam or the Commercial, at both of which places Jos. Lory, the chief among the barber tribe, holds undisputed sway, is the place to get it all done jam up.

We learn from the Nashville Press and Times of the 28th ult., that Brinsley Payne, citizen employe of the United States, has been sentenced by court martial to be hung on the 15th inst. in that city, for the killing of a negro named Jack Manley.

The Tennessee Live Stock Insurance Company seldom fails to recover stolen stock. Some weeks since a valuable mare and mule of Mrs. Blackburne were stolen, and last week, the energetic agents of the company recovered them near Tompkinsville, Ky. A horse master of James A. McGuire, of Nashville, was also recovered last week by the company. We believe in every instance except one the company has pursued, and recovered lost property.—Gallatin Examiner.

A fashionable party of young ladies is now styled a "daughtercultural show."
